

THE VERVE PIPE

Threads is the newest album from the multiplatinum alternative rock band The Verve Pipe, recognized worldwide for their radio hits "Photograph" "Colorful" "Never Let You Down" and the #1 multi-format smash "The Freshmen."

Featuring the singles "No One's Gonna Break This Heart (Again)" "Forever Reaching" and "Love Will Find You Again," the new album is distinguished by its masterful writing and brilliant musical arrangements and performances.

Inspired by a Japanese legend of a red thread of fate that connects us all to those who will play an important role in our lives, songwriters Brian Vander Ark and Channing Lee weave this theme symbolically in and out of each of the new 12 original songs as they tell stories of love, heartbreak, abuse, addiction, hope and revenge.

Threads is a powerful testament to one of the preeminent alternative rock bands who continue to create dynamic original songs that deliver both musically and lyrically.

the new album by Karen Peris
singer and songwriter of the innocence mission

Welcome!! Welcome!!

Greeting friends...keep reading and you will find some titles that are releasing this Fall as well as some that came out over the summer that you may have missed. Lockdowns, breakdowns, takedowns, shakedown and sick-downs all have contributed to our sporadic schedule in the last year plus. Hoping that as we move forward, we are able to resume life as we used to know it. That would be a treat...not a treatment!

Is there an echo in here? I know I've said it before---IT'S ALL ABOUT THE KIDS!! This time around we get the 19th, and probable final, Caspar Babypants release...say it ain't so. Karen Peris splits her time between writing and singing in the innocence mission and also the occasional children's project, This one is called A Song is Way Above the Lawn and available both on CD and LP. The Harmonica Pocket is on a good run with his two most recent releases each having garnered Parents' Choice Gold Awards. Third times the charm!

In 1999, Thrasher Magazine named skateboarder Steve Caballero "The skater of the century." Mighty big words. There has always been an alignment within the skating community with Punk. Along the way, Steve added "guitarist" to his resume and has fronted several groups. The latest is Urethane and their first is on Cyber Tracks, the label co-owned by El Hefe of NOFX.

TEXAS!!! People either love it or hate it...or both! We've got three artists bursting out of the Lone Star State this time around. One is Augie Meyers whose been kicking music out of San Antonio for parts of the last six decades reaching fame in a couple of them and has never stopped making music. Another is Gary Myrick whose MTV hit some forty years back still resounds even while he searches his acoustic blues roots with a brand new album. And Matt the Electrician, a relative newcomer who landed in Austin only 25 years ago and now is releasing his lucky 13th album. Happy Trails...

Under the guise of The Green Pajamas and solo releases, Seattle's Jeff Kelly has let 40 plus albums escape in the last 35 years. Being prolific is one thing; being really good at what you do and maintaining quality is another thing. Jeff Kelly meets that mark every time. The latest from Green Pajamas is Sunlight Might Weigh Even More.

I know, I can hear you asking, "But tell me, Oh Wise One, what did we miss along the way when the temps hit 100 plus?" Howzabout Low Roar, Ulver, Jenny Don't and The Spurs, Elijah Ocean, Jack Forman from Recess Monkey, Anna Tivel, Bob Malone, The Suburbs, some newly unearthed Poison Idea efforts and a whole lot more. WHEW!! Can I Get an AMEN?

And don't forget the new ones from The Verve Pipe and Local H!

Your friends at bdc...

AMERICANA

Matt the Electrician, We Imagined An Ending

Matt the Electrician's new studio album, We Imagined An Ending, produced by Tucker Martine, releases November 5th, 2021. The end result sounds both unlike any other album he has made to date and like quintessential Matt the Electrician: eclectic but inviting, adventurous but cozy, and buoyed by a disarming sense of whimsy that belies the earnest pangs of loss and heartbreak lingering around the edges and between the lines. Of the first single, "Home Again", Rolling Stone says, "The guitars are Big Star bright, the harmonies choir-like, and Matt's own delivery a jolt of clarity in a cacophonous world. It's a journey to zen, in just under four minutes."

Augie Meyers, Simply... Augie

In 1964, Augie Meyers had the first Vox Continental organ in the US. He used it to memorable effect as part of the Sir Douglas Quintet's She's About A Mover and thus created the Augie Meyer's sound--- instantly identifiable, often imitated but never duplicated. With his Quintet career and later The Texas Tornados, that sound endures along with guest appearances on releases by Tom Waits, Bob Dylan, The Mavericks and countless others. With Simply...Augie, he turns the notion of that sound upside down by deftly playing piano in a fashion he's not previously been associated with. This new album has no drums, no bass, no guitar...but it does have strings and deeply personal songs about love, life and death. At 81, Augie surprises everyone with a new sound.

Myrick, Gary, Forever-Adventures in 12 String

Gary Myrick has played amazing guitar for years. "She Talks In Stereod" was an MTV hit in 1980. Now Gary has resurrected a wide variety of songs and presents them with his acoustic 12 string bringing an amazing tone and complexity to these songs. His "Ode to Robert Johnson" starts the disc off (and is the featured video), nuances of Leadbelly and others carry on Gary's Texas roots in the blues. This all analog recording was done with one ribbon vintage microphone and brings his virtuoso power and raw vocals to the present day. Stan Lynch of the Petty Heartbreakers calls Gary a "bad ass" with an "incredible sound".

Karen Peris, A Song is Way Above the Lawn

Karen Peris, singer and songwriter of beloved Pennsylvania band, the innocence mission, offers a timeless album for children, or for listeners of any age, expressing both the universal and the particular sense of wonder and mystery keenly felt in small moments of a day: walking under trees in a city, encountering gentle lions in the public library, seeing dogs from a car window, hearing the opening sounds of the morning, noticing a feeling of connectedness to the larger world. A richly melodic album of great tenderness, often made poignant by Peris' singing and piano and chamber-like arrangements. Accompanied by her own full-color illustrations, it shines with a joy of being alive.

"Karen Peris nestles into the corners of beauty, articulating images and ideas just out of view." NPR Music

JAZZ

Ron Wilkins, Trombocalist

A lot of people say that music is their life; for trombonist and vocalist Ron Wilkins, it's the absolute truth. In 2020, Ron came down with COVID while traveling and went into a medically induced coma. Doctors predicted the worst, and much to everyone's delight and amazement, he woke up 36 days later. The condition had not affected his lungs, largely due to his years of playing trombone, euphonium, tuba, and bass trumpet. Music had literally saved Ron's life, and once he was awake, he couldn't wait to play his horn. The result of Ron's profound sense of ambition and renewal is his current release Trombocalist, an ambitious collection of songs that dynamically showcase his strengths as a composer, low brass instrumentalist, and singer. Ron approaches his craft with equal parts vigor, class, and humor throughout the release's ten tracks.

ROCK/POP

The Green Pajamas, Sunlight Might Weigh Even More

All new album by Seattle's legendary Green Pajamas for 2021! The astonishing, Sunlight Might Weigh Even More, destined to be a landmark in their impressive discography, lands in the tradition of their classic trio of albums from the 1990's, Strung Behind the Sun, All Clues Lead to Meagan's Bed and Seven Fathoms Down and Falling. Sunlight Might Weigh Even More is full of the PJ's trademark memorable melodies, exotic instruments, vocal harmonies and ringing electric guitars, with the occasional analogue synthesizer, birdsong, backwards girls' choir or London rain storm thrown in for good measure. The vibe here leans heavily to the sunny psych-pop that the Green Pajamas remain most associated with, even after 25 albums of remarkable diversity.

Sean Rowe, The Darkness Dressed in Colored Lights

The Darkness Dressed in Colored Lights is ripe with both dimensions. It was produced by Sean Rowe's friend and longtime collaborator Troy Pohl and here they make the most of their combined ambition and experience. The album's title is taken from its first single, "To Make It Real." "All this darkness, dressed in colored lights. Everything is wrong but you look so damn beautiful tonight." 's a relatable couplet that illustrates the paradox between what once was and what now is, while the chorus howls in response to being lost in the inbetween. When you lose your way, when you lose your face, when you're paid tenfold for what you used to steal. When you lose that love, when you lose your mind, well then oh my God, you make it real."

Peter Case, The Midnight Broadcast

Three time Grammy nominee, Peter Case (Nerves, Plimsouls) returns with The Midnight Broadcast. You're alone, at night, on a long journey in a car, far away from the nearest town, driving in the darkness. A radio station begins to tune in. A broadcast is coming in and out of focus, of a DJ who's announcing records, a rock n' roll DJ with a voice from Finnegans Wake. The music starts, but what is it? One song after another, all different, but all of a piece, like a transmission from the other end of world. Songs of cowboys, lovers, fighters, and shipwrecked sailors, hope, laughter and despair, ancient blues, gutbucket jazz, and singing machines, songs that sound like one microphone is listening in on a roomful of maniacs. It's The Midnight Broadcast.

Jack Forman, Can't Buy a Thrill Ride

Conceived in Covid, performed in PJs, Jack Forman returns with Can't Buy a Thrill Ride, a new 12-song collection of highly addictive songs for the whole family. While navigating his kids' Zoom classrooms and looking longingly out the living room window along with everyone else, Jack captures a relatable and seemingly spontaneous reaction to day (after day) of being at home with a family bursting with energy. The Grammy nominated family musician and as host of Live From the Monkey House on SiriusXM's Kids Place Live, continues to bring authentic melodies, resonating ideas and a healthy dose of caffeine to each song. Each one echoes his days as a teacher (and, before that, as an extremely quirky kid).

Jenny Don't And The Spurs, Fire On The Ridge

The third full length release from Portland's Honky Tonk/Rockabilly/Punk anti-heroes, Jenny Don't And The Spurs, showcases the diverse array of musical styles from which the band draws its influences. With 11 tracks clocking in at under 33 minutes, there isn't a wasted second as the band switches from blistering barn-burners ("Train Ticket", "Be The Only One") to rambling westerns ("Fire On The Ridge") to Patsy Cline style ballads ("Friday Night").

ELECTRONIC

Nous Alpha, A Walk In The Woods

Nous Alpha is the avant-garde electronic collaboration between artist-composer-producers Gareth Jones (Depeche Mode, Grizzly Bear, Can, Erasure) and Christopher Bono (Bardo, Ghost Against Ghost, NOUS). Nous Alpha's second album A Walk in the Woods is a colorful mosaic of organic field recordings done in New York's Catskill Mountains, framed by synth-driven instrumentals. The nine tracks feature a blend of melodies and motifs set against a spectral exploration of groove that moves between minimalist and complex polyrhythms.

Massimo Pupillo; Márton Csókás; Gabriele Tinti, 'Embracing the Ruins' LP

House of Mythology are proud to share the first album from Massimo Pupillo / Márton Csókás / Gabriele Tinti entitled Embracing the Ruins. Though many will be familiar with Massimo's output with Italian avant-gardists Zu, this very special body of work brings and takes on a life of its own. Embracing The Ruins is a haunting, alchemic journey through the poetry of Gabriele Tinti inhabited and performed by renowned actor Márton Csókás. Now available on 180-gram red transparent vinyl, thick (350gsm) sleeve, poly-lined disco bag, and plastic protection sleeve. The album which features art by internationally renowned photographer / artist Andres Serrano also comes with an A3 poster of Winged Victory, 1987. Courtesy of Andres and the Nathalie Obadia Gallery. Ulver, Hexahedron (Live At Henie Onstad Kunstsenter)

Hexahedron documents the second of the two dazzling, specially commissioned sold-out Ulver shows in the legendary Studio at Henie Onstad Kunstsenter at Høvikodden back in April 2018. During the shows at the band found themselves trapped in a multidimensional "hypercube" in the middle of the asymmetric space. Inside it they experimented with all-new ideas in an installation as galactic as the music presented. Around them, the audience moved unhindered among hallucinatory lights and laser-guided melodies, losing themselves in interstellar clouds of gas, dust and broken junk of exploded stars. Three years have passed, and finally it's here. One continuous session of sixty minutes broken into five parts. The result is "astral black... with hints of Supertramp and Sun Ra", as the band jestingly said. But most of all Hexahedron is expansive, transportive and luminous. The double LP Set is 180-gram clear vinyl, a thick (350gsm) gatefold sleeve, white poly-lined disco bags, with LPs packed in the middle of gatefold (to avoid seam splits), and plastic protection sleeve.

Kalinec & Kj, Let's Get Away

Texan Brian Kalinec and Pennsylvanian Kj Reimensnyder-Wagner met by chance at one of Brian's shows in East Texas while she was in nearby Shreveport conducting a seminar in educational songwriting. Not long afterwards, after a song swap, they noticed their styles meshed quite well and decided to start performing together. Their debut album, Let's Get Away, demonstrates their musical synchronicity with a unique and yet familiar feel. "The first time I heard this CD by Kalinec & Kj I thought to myself - Harmonies, melodies, songs powerful and heartfelt...You'll want to listen to these songs over and over again." -- Jon Stein WTBQ 93.5

In February of 2021, Anna Tivel collaborated with Portland musician friends Galen Clark and Micah Hummel to reimagine a collection of songs from previous releases as well as one from an album due out next year. Blair Crimmins and The Hookers have been recording their own brand of Ragtime Jazz for 10 years and while their previous albums have been exclusively original songs, their live performances always include an eclectic mix of cover tunes. Their new release Okay, Boom has all those crowd pleasing cover songs spanning the decades from Louis Armstrong to Bob Dylan to Iggy Pop. Lorenzo Martinez and Ramon "Rabbit" Sanchez, Old School Polkas Del Ghost Town

This recording presents the essence of authentic old school conjunto music, straight out of the San Antonio West Side. Lorenzo Martinez and Ramon "Rabbit" Sanchez are two master musicians who have played at innovative edge of conjunto for more than half a century. Lorenzo and Rabbit play a much wider and virtuosic range of music than just polkitas. They boast a rare and beautiful repertoire that is no longer being played by contemporary conjunto musicians. This older music includes mazurkas, schottisches, waltzes, and redovas, all of which Lorenzo and Rabbit have continued to play.

NEW AGE

Alora Crucible, 'Thymiamatascension'

Alora Crucible is the new project by Toby Driver (Kayo Dot, maudlin of the Well, Bloodmist). Smoke from burning incense rises and dances, the sprawling and sensual byproduct of a thing turning to ash. The trees we amputated from ourselves threaten to grow back, the land we tried to escape from beckons us to return. We find out how to come home by running away from it. As we navigate our personal field of burdens, we imagine becoming weightless. How much space is there between a dream and a trial? In Alora Crucible there is none at all. This album is limited to 500 copies and is exclusively available on 180-gram green transparent 12" vinyl, with a thick (350gsm) sleeve, printed inner sleeve, and plastic protection sleeve.

ROCK/POP

Iris Doe, The Times / A Miss Of You

The Times, is the new 7 inch single from Birmingham's Iris Doe. The B-side is a cover of the Dead Moon classic A Miss of You. The Times was born from a late night recording session in Los Angeles. Lyrically tipping the hat to Neil Young's Crazy Horse and Keith Richards, the song weaves a story of both exhaustion and hope, set to the sound of rolling piano's, overdriven acoustics and tuned down drums. A Miss of You was recorded while on tour in a hotel room the same evening that Dead Moon's Fred Cole passed away. Doe says "Out of respect for Dead Moon and the bands devout fans, I didn't want to release it without the approval of his wife and bandmate, Toody. I received an email from her saying how much she loved hearing Fred's words again and had her complete blessing."

Nick Jaina, 'Credo' LP

Nick Jaina started recording CREDO in November of 2019 at Fluff and Gravy Studios in Portland, Oregon. Nick had been living mostly in his car, and then hit a cow with that car in Utah, and was without any possessions. He used the instruments in the studio to piece together these songs, one by one, testing mics, trying guitar pedals. Soon after, a flood hit the studio and a pandemic hit the world, and Nick was in his home with no one else around to finish the job. "Take the guitar solo myself? Well, okay, if I must!"

Joe Kaplow, Sending Money and Stems

Upon listening to Joe Kaplow's forthcoming second full-length album, Sending Money and Stems, the first thing that strikes you is his voice. Over the course of 10 affecting indie folk tracks, his shimmering falsetto seems to dance with the strings of his guitar as it pulls you in and takes the lead. Recorded largely in his own bedroom, Kaplow plays most of the instruments himself, but when it came time for mixing, he relied on the trusted hands and ears of Portland fixture, Mike Coykendall (M Ward, Richmond Fontaine) as well as Lucas Heinel.

Low Roar, maybe tomorrow... .

Ever the nomad, in 2020 Ryan Karazija found himself someplace new with a piano. The batch of songs he wrote quickly coalesced into maybe tomorrow... Collaborating with Mike Lindsay and Andrew Scheps (the same team since O), Low Roar's fifth full length studio album took shape. Ryan's voice as a singer and a songwriter comes through strongly, making this instantly recognizable as a Low Roar record, but there is also something new, with expansive arrangements, intricate vocals, live brass and ever-present wind chimes. maybe tomorrow... is a beautiful record, meant to be listened to in one sitting, and it will transport you.

The March Divide, cinq

Jared Putnam is one of the most prolific songwriters in Texas, and he earns that distinction in his second act. Having already flirted with the danger of major labels when his young band The Conversation was a national next thing, in the past decade as The March Divide, Putnam has basically done it all on his own, self-releasing a barrage of singles, EPs, and albums at a seemingly non-stop pace during that time. cinq, his fifth album, was conceived as a full-length, but has mostly been released throughout the pandemic as a series of singles. Featuring ten new next level tracks of Putnam's unique indie pop/rock sound, mixed & mastered by Alan Sanderson (Fiona Apple, Weezer), cinq is The March Divide's best album to date. The LP is pressed on 180 gram pink and blue swirled vinyl and includes a download card.

Garrett Pierce, 'Eyes Wide In The Fire' LP

Eyes Wide In The Fire is Garrett Pierce's fifth album – a project penned alone over several years, but only fully realized after collaborating with producer/multi-instrumentalist Max Hart (War on Drugs, Melissa Etheridge). The arrangements move between the intimacy of a single guitar & voice, to lush keyboards, strings, and multi-layered guitars – an homage to both his roots in the Los Angeles cafés (where he first shared his songs) as well as the Bay Area music halls where those songs found their widest audience. With a fifteen-year career spanning five albums and several side bands, Pierce has always centered his songs around the lyrics.

Though proudly carrying the torch of the Minneapolis 80's sound of which they were progenitors, The Suburbs, featuring some of the finest players in Twin Cities music scene, sounds vital: grooving, rocking, funny, funky, and unique as always. The new album is brimming with hooks, under its classic New Wave architecture lies the patented Hugo beat, and Chan, his idiosyncratic lyrical perspective intact, is singing cooler than ever with Roxy Music lushness, energized with art-rock guitar soundscapes and punchy horns. Add the sparkle of Janey Winterbauer's backing vocal tracks, and the new songs soar. Poets Party contains 12 delightful new additions to their 40 year old canon, bringing them fully, and with consummate style, into the 21st Century.

1977 Original soundtrack LP for the horror sequel - music composed by. "In one of his first forays into big budget Hollywood, Morricone handed in one of his weirdest, eeriest scores" - Rolling Stone (top 35 greatest horror soundtracks). Once you get to the deranged Satanic prog rock of "Magic And Ecstasy," it hits you: this is the craziest we've ever heard Morricone. And it's amazing. Sourced From The Original Master Tapes and reissued for the first time, this limited edition LP is pressed on Orange and Black Vinyl. THE HIGHLY ANTICIPATED THIRD ALBUM FROM THE LEGAL MATTERS
NOW AVAILABLE: VINYL • DIGITAL

"Great care was obviously taken with every aspect of Chapter Three and it certainly shows—this is a top-shelf winner. Grade: A" — John Borack, Goldmine

"The Legal Matters, with Chapter Three, are absolutely on top of their game. A massively powerful and thrilling musical ride." — Rob Ross, MusicAP

"Chapter Three contains some of the best Pop/Rock writing and performing I've heard in a long time. If this release doesn't gain national traction, there is most definitely something severely wrong with the world." — Robert E. Martin, Review Magazine
